

HEALTH EDUCATION EDITOR

Student Health 101 invites interested applicants for the Health Education Editor position at our Westboro, MA office.

Student Health 101 is the online health and wellness magazine for college students, used by hundreds of colleges and universities around the U.S. and Canada. Each month, students learn about eating well, staying fit, reducing stress, relationships, sexual health, mental health, money management, and much more through our online magazine.

The Health Education Editor is involved in the coordination and delivery of wellness-related education available to two million college and university students each month. Specifically, the Health Education Editor will help to establish learning outcomes for Student Health 101 content, review and proofread articles and videos from our contributors, and collaborate with our Editorial Team and Advisory Boards to provide the best possible finished product for our college and university partners.

You will have the opportunity to:

- Impact the health and wellness decisions of students on hundreds of college and university campuses
- Develop strategic plans, goals, and measure objectives for Student Health 101 content
- Put ideas into action to develop program extensions to Student Health 101
- Make a difference in the lives of students throughout the U.S. and Canada
- Travel to related conferences in higher education to keep up-to-date on the latest developments in student health, wellness and success

At a minimum you should have:

- Bachelor's degree in Health Education, Health Promotion, Public Health or equivalent professional experience
- Demonstrated knowledge and abilities in the following areas:
 - o Health promotion programming/initiatives in college/university settings
 - o Student development methods and practices
 - o Development and implementation of learning outcomes
 - o Excellent working knowledge of industry best practices
- Strong organizational and time management skills
- Exceptional written and verbal communication skills
- Proficiency in common software applications (word processing, spreadsheet, presentation)
- Attention to detail and abstract problem solving skills
- Exemplary customer service skills and willingness to communicate effectively with a diverse variety of clients, colleagues and personnel
- Familiarity with social marketing, health communication and web 2.0 strategies

The preferred candidate will have:

- Master's Degree in Health Education, Health Promotion, Public Health or related field with two or more years experience in practice
- Certified Health Education Specialist (CHES)

Salary and Benefits

This is a full-time, salary position based at our office in Westboro, MA, 5 minutes west of the I-495/Rt. 9 interchange. Salary commensurate with experience, including two weeks vacation and participation in the company health care coverage.

To Express Your Interest

Please send a letter of application, resume, and salary expectations to Dan Wolman at dwolman@studenthealth101.com, by fax to 630-578-3882, or by mail to Student Health 101, 112 Turnpike Road, Suite 304, Westboro, MA 01581.